RE: Right of Entry – Soil Remediation

I, _____, (hereinafter "Client") hereby grants Right of Entry permission to Hydroscience, Inc., (hereinafter HI), its agents, representatives, staff, consultants, contractors, and subcontractors for the address known as:

_____.

I authorize that this Right of Entry shall be valid for the duration of the project as is necessary in order to perform and with the right to perform all acts, studies and all other necessary project activities on behalf of the "Client" including, but not limited to: the making of test borings; moving or removal of soil, groundwater, materials and/or wastes; removal or abandonment of underground storage tanks (UST); soil and or groundwater sampling and/or monitoring; analysis of soil and/or groundwater; installation or monitoring and/or recovery wells.

Granting this Right of Entry will allow HI to perform services hereunder and constitutes agreement by "Client" that HI will be held harmless in the event of damage to, or injury arising from or relating to, or resulting from subterranean structures, e.g., pipes, tanks, lines, cabling, sprinkler systems, hidden drainage systems, septic systems, low voltage lighting, etc., on site. We will take all care to avoid damaging any marked underground utilities, but will not be held responsible for breakage or reconnection of any unmarked or improperly marked utilities at the site, private or public, nor any incidental damages that may be caused by the breakage of private or public utilities unless these have been called to the explicit attention of HI and correctly shown and specified by plans furnished by "Client" in connection with the work performed under the relevant Agreement.

"Client" hereby recognizes that acts, studies, project work activities and/or use of exploration, transportation or construction equipment, if any, may unavoidably alter the terrain and affect vegetation in the work area and accepts that such damage, if it occurs, is inherent to the nature of the work, and will hold HI harmless for such damage.

By signing this document, I am representing that I am authorized to grant such permission.
